

The policy of the senior management in the area of energy management in DEZA, a. s. concerns the efficiency of the production process for energy and media, transfer to internal and external clients and the level of effective consumption in production operating units plus services related to the production and distribution of associated energies. The senior management of the company executes the strategy for production control and managing energies using the under mentioned principles of the energy management policy of DEZA, a. s.

1. The subject of the energy management system is the production of energies for supplying manufacturing operating units of the enterprise related objects and the provision of heating and electricity to external consumers.
2. The system controls production, self consumption, energy supply and inputs and energies up to the output at delivery points in regard to the character and scope of the use of energy and the impact on the use of energy in DEZA, a. s.
3. The energy policy is created to provide the framework for determination and investigation of energy sources and target values.

The senior management of DEZA, a. s. Valašské Meziříčí undertakes to execute the following activities within the strategy for production control and energy management in the following period:

- in cases where it is feasible and effective – a permanent increase in the energy efficiency of the technical equipment for the production of energies and an effective decrease in losses in the distribution systems,
- ensuring the availability of information and all sources necessary for achieving objectives and target values,
- the fulfilment of all applicable requirements related to energy and concerning legislative requirements or enquires made by the organisation,
- provision of effective assistance, information, financial and material assurance and training for employees wherever required to successfully ensure the fulfilment of the energy policy.

The energy policy forms part of the Energy Management System Manual and is documented, implemented and adhered to within this system.

The policy of energy management control is binding for all employees of DEZA, a. s. and records are held detailing the notification to all persons working for the organisation or within its authority.

The energy policy is regularly examined and updated each year within the examination process of the efficiency of the energy management system by the senior management of company DEZA, a. s.

